ALAMEDA, July 14.—Prostrated by the shock of the marriage of her son, Otto, to Miss Lottie Galsing, Mrs. H. Hill lies upon her sick bed at her home, 1416 Paru street, and, in a fit of pique, lays heavy blame upon the head of the woman and, in the next breath, disinherits her son. With the finger of scorn pointing at the woman, whom she alleges is not fit to raise her boy's love, Mrs. Hill places the blame of the marriage of her son upon the shoulders of Lottie Galsing. She points with pride to the high family station her son occupies and says that he is the grandson of Sir Robert Lauder, Baronet, of Kings County, Ireland.

Otto Hill and Lottie Galsing were married at Oakland last Sunday. Otto, who is a well-to-do man, and putting his arms around her told her to take care of herself until his return from his vacation. Little did the mother know that her son was to wed, she says, and she did not discover that he had left her home for good and all until she found on the following morning that he had removed all his belongings from his room.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Four men who drifted about in the open sea all night in a small boat without oars and for whom the life saving crews along the coast made desperate search last night and early this morning, were blown into Halfmoon Bay today and landed at Grenada. Their launch had become disabled, and in their haste in taking to the small boat they failed to provide themselves with oars. The men were Captain R. M. Lawton, San Francisco, G. C. Preston, Santa Cruz, J. T. Connell, Santa Cruz, and one other. The distress of the men was first noticed by some laborers at San Gregorio on the Ocean Shore railway about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when they were taken to the rowboat. They were then about three-quarters of a mile off shore. The disabled launch finally drifted ashore at Palmer's beach, while the rowboat containing the men drifted northward about half a mile out from shore.

DENVER, July 14.—It is stated by Chinese here that the Chinese government, following the report of the Chinese consul, has set the seal of official approval upon the protection of Leon Ling by the Chinese Masons and that he will never be found with the assistance of his countrymen.

A Chinese newspaper having the unenviable reputation of being a sensational and containing the New York consul's report has reached Denver. The report, after citing the facts of the case, states that it has been discovered that Elsie Steel, in a delicate condition as the result of her indiscretions and fearing discovery by her family, came to Leon Ling's room seeking some means to hide her shame.

NEW YORK, July 14.—A son and two daughters who did not share in the will of the late Mrs. Caroline Schilling, who died at her Brooklyn residence in 1896, announce that they will take steps at once to have the body exhumed in the belief that a servant concealed several deeds and other papers in the coffin and thus prevented them from sharing in their mother's large estate.

This step followed the arrest Sunday night of Elizabeth Donegan, an aged servant, who at the time was believed to be starving and concealed in whose clothing the hospital nurses found nearly $700 in cash, a dozen large diamonds, other jewelry and bank books representing deposits of nearly $6000. As it was known that Elizabeth Donegan was not of a saving disposition, mystery prevailed as to how she came by the fortune.

Tells of Marriage

When came a telephone message to the effect that her son had been married—and to the very woman whom he had promised to part with and against whose influence Mrs. Hill had pleaded with her son according to the news story.

Mrs. Hill failed as the news came to her and has since been confined to her bed, suffering from the shock. She is under the care of physicians who warn her to rest.

Men Signal for Aid

The last seen of the men was off Martin's beach, six miles south of Halfmoon Point, where James Moscon noticed them signaling frantically. But was unable to lend them any assistance, as there is not a power boat at any point along the coast from San Gregorio to San Francisco. They were then half a mile off shore and drifting about three miles an hour northwestward. C. D. Smith, the Ocean Shore agent at Halfmoon Bay, had been notified of the plight of the men in the meantime and notified the life saving station at San Francisco.

Suicide, is Claim

In a moment of desperation she took her own life by poison.

Ling the report states, was absent at the time and found the dead body of the girl upon the bed upon his return.

Frightened by the discovery, he called Chung Sin from the adjoining room and showing him the body, asked what he should do. Chung Sin, says the report, advised him that should tell the truth to the police regarding the finding of the body he would not be believed and probably would be lynched. Frightened by this view of the case, Ling made desperate efforts to dispose of the body and conceal his own whereabouts.

Woman Arrested

Reading of the detention of the woman, one of her former employers, Mrs. I. M. White, informed Joseph Schilling, the son whom Mrs. Schilling had cut off in her will, that the Donegan woman had related a circumstance which might be advantageous to him. Mrs. White said that Miss Donegan had told her that just before the funeral of Mrs. Schilling she had slipped some deeds and a will and some other papers in the coffin; that the documents were buried with the body and that if they were ever found the matter would cause a sensation.

MOTHER GIVES POISON TO FOUR CHILDREN AND HERSELF

DES MOINES, July 14.—Despondent over family affairs, Mr. William Olliphant, who resides near West Branch, in this section, was not at all inspired with the desire for self-destruction last night, but also stifled the maternal instinct in her heart and sought to take her four little innocent children and her own life by administering to them, as well as to herself, what she considered to be fatal doses of strychnine and carbolic acid.

The crime is the most regrettable and, at the same time, the most brutal that has ever been attempted, much less perpetrated, in this vicinity.

One of the tender victims of the unmotherly woman is already dead and there is some doubt as to the fate of the three others, though the woman herself will probably survive the dose of the deadly drugs which were self-administered.

The tragic deed of the frenzied woman was brought to the attention of the neighbors by the horrible cries of the little innocents when the unnatural mother poured the searing liquids down their throats, burning them in a most horrible manner. The screams of the children were heartrending and brought the result that neighbors to the scene, with a physician, who was about to administer to the purpose of affording relief to the unfortunate sufferers.

It seems, however, that after the woman had administered the awful doses to both herself and her offspring, there was a physical and mental reaction, and she, realizing that she was about to lose her little ones, she telephoned to a physician and asked him to come and save her children but to leave herself to die.

The physician arrived on the scene about the same time that the neighbors reached the scene of the horrible deed and was able to afford some relief to the children, but his efforts in the case of one of the little girls were unavailing, for the reason that the poison had been so liberally forced down the throat of the sufferer that the child passed away soon after his arrival.

Hidden by Chinese

The report of the Chinese consul at New York, making these statements, was sent to Peking more than three weeks ago.

The report is evidently regarded by the Chinese authorities as revealing the true state of the case and the Chinese Masons are given credit for their encouragement to conceal Leon Ling.

A member of the Chinese colony here said today:

"Only God can find Leon Ling now. He is under the protection of the Masons and is being aided by them in his effort to escape the police. Unless further facts come to light proving his guilt he will never be delivered to the officers by his own people."

The Chinese here intimate that any assurance by the Chinese government that the Chinese of this country will aid in the search for the fugitive should be taken with a grain of salt.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Wing Shu Shen, the Chinese consul at New York, stated that in any part of the report made to him to the Chinese legation at Washington was anything said as to the cause of the death of Elsie Steel and also denied emphatically that approval had been given of the concealment of Leon Ling.

Children Act

Joseph Schilling, whose home is in Albany, and his two sisters, who were also disinherited, conferred and have decided to ask for the opening of the grave, as they believe that their mother intended that they should share in her estate. The deeds mentioned are believed to be Marjorie's property, which was thought Mrs. Schilling owned but of which no trace was found after her death. Neither could the executor of her estate find any valuable jewels which her children say she possessed.

Pending the opening of the grave the police are holding Miss Donegan under a charge of vagrancy and have taken possession of the fortune found upon her.

R. D. GATEWOOD PASSES AWAY.

DESCRIBES HOW MAN KISSED PRETTY MISS ELLA GINGLES

CHICAGO, July 14.—Dr. W. J. Gibson, superintendent of the Western Psychiatric Hospital, at Bellevue, Canada, David S. Thornton and William McCormick, also of that city, arrived today and were expected to give sensational testimony in the trial of Ella Gingles, the young Irish landlady.

"Dr. Gibson," said the prosecutor, "will testify that Miss Gingles is not the pure, innocent girl that she has been trying to make the people believe she is. She is employed at a cook under the name of Ella Raymond and that while there she stole several pieces of linen. McCormick is a photographer and also will give important testimony."

The State expects to finish its case today.

Thornton first took the stand. He testified that Ella had been a cook in his household and that she was ill, needing attention while working for him. While he was speaking Miss Gingles bowed her head and seemed about to break down.

The witness said he saw Ella hostile a man near Thornton's home and kiss her many times. Thornton said he took Ella into his home after the operation and left her in charge of the house.

"Where was the silverware?" asked the prosecutor.

"Locked up," replied Thornton.

"And the linen?"

"In the attic."

"Why did Miss Gingles leave?"

"She said her sister was dying in Chicago," replied Thornton.

Dr. W. J. Gibson, who attended Miss Gingles in Bellevue, Ont., regarding the physical condition of the girl at that time, was called.

ACCUSES HUSBAND OF TRYING TO BETRAY HER LADY FRIEND

Charging that her husband tried on two occasions to betray her closest lady friend, and that he has been guilty of many other offenses towards her, since their marriage in San Francisco in April, 1900, Alice Filmer today brought suit in the Superior Court for a divorce from him. Filmer, chief electrician of the United States Army transport Sheridan, which plies between San Francisco and Manila, has also asked the court for a divorce from her support and an injunction restraining the officers of the Quartermaster Department of the army, the Transport Service and the transport Sheridan from in any way interfering with her collection of the alimony.

With reference to the alleged attempt made by Filmer to betray her best friend, Mrs. Filmer says that on two different occasions in San Francisco her friend made an indecent proposal to the lady friend, each time assaulting her and tearing off her clothing in his endeavor to outrage her. The wife also alleges that Filmer often accused her of bestowing her love upon another and that on one occasion in this connection kissed her that she had not "as much sense as a house."

Mrs. Filmer charges that her husband had repeatedly twisted her arms and beaten her until she was black and blue, struck her in the face, choked her until her eyes became bloodshot and until she could see "bloody streaks" curved in diverse other ways made married life miserable and unbearable for her.

Falls From Tug in Slough and Drowns

George W. McNear, the well known grain merchant, whose home is at 557 Linden street, has been detained at home for some time owing to painful stomach troubles. During a part of the time he has been seriously ill, but he has been able at intervals to take exercise in refreshing rides through the suburbs. For the last few days he has been confined to his home, but members of his family say that he will soon be able to again resume his exercise in the open air.

Babe Abandoned at Quake Will Be Legally Adopted

LITTLE DOROTHY JESTER, Abandoned at the Time of the San Francisco Fire and Whose Parentage is a Mystery Her Guardians are Seeking to Solve.

Papers of adoption for the tiny babe whom she found sleeping peacefully on a couch in her living room a few days after the San Francisco earthquake will be applied for by Mrs. James Jeter, wife of a well-known business man of this city, who has expressed a determination to raise the child as her own. The little one will be christened Dorothy Jeter, and it is probable that its real parentage will never be known.

The child, a blue eyed, golden haired little bit of humanity, scarcely two weeks old, was found one night sleeping peacefully in her home by Mrs. Jeter, who is childless. Clad in a dainty white night dress and wrapped in a finely netted white shawl, there was no clue to the little one's parentage except a penciled note to one tiny pink slip, stating that the babe was a refugee from the earthquake and stating that the mother was ill and unable to care for her.

Mrs. Jeter has received no word from the parents of the child, whom she has cared for nearly three years.

When the legal formalities are gone through with the baby will be known as Dorothy Jeter and will fall heir to much of the Jeter property upon the death of her foster parents, including the beautiful home at 683 Sixty-second street, where she was abandoned and has since lived.

Mrs. Frank Norris Is Seriously Ill

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Mrs. Frank Norris, widow of the novelist, is seriously ill at her home in Santa Barbara and her recovery is in doubt.

Her sickness is said to have been induced by an aggravated case of tonsillitis, for which she came to San Francisco a month ago for treatment. When she returned to her southern home a serious relapse occurred.

Mrs. Norris was taken from her home to that of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, where no one but her physicians are permitted to see her. Mrs. Norris and Mrs. Strong, the daughter of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, are living together in their beautiful country home in Santa Barbara, which was completed just before Mrs. Norris became ill.

Want Burns' Salary Demands Paid Up

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Assistant District Attorney Langdon, this morning applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandate to compel Auditor Horton to O. K. the salary demands of William J. Burns and his twenty odd detectives. Burns has received no salary since May, and the Auditor has stated that until he gets a positive order from the court he will not audit the demands of any city employee which do not come through the regular channel and are passed by the proper committee on the Board of Supervisors.

The Supreme Court will probably act upon the matter at an early date.

WOMAN'S SLOVE CAUSES HER TO SHIELD AFFINITY

Knows of Husband's Intimacy For Another Yet She Keeps Silent

SOULMATE SCANDAL CAUSE OF MURDER

Wife Receives Rival Socially So as to Hide Secret From Friends

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., July 14.—Cleaning her 12-year-old boy to her heart and with tears streaming down her cheeks, Mrs. L. C. Miller, wife of Dr. W. L. Miller, now being held on a charge of killing Dr. W. L. Miller, sister of the First National Bank of Crescent City, Ill., told her story of the affair to the Associated Press today.

"I have known of my husband's intimacy with the woman for two years, and like Mr. Saylor, I kept silent. I pleaded with this woman to let my husband return to his family and was laughed at. For two years Mrs. Saylor ran after my husband. They went away together on several trips. Two years ago, my husband told me that he wanted me to have Mr. and Mrs. Saylor call at our home. I met Mrs. Saylor for months my husband insisted that I call on Mrs. Saylor."

"Rather than let it to friends we had made in Crescent City, so that I knew of my husband's fondness for this woman, I continued to meet her socially. HOWEVER, AFTER A YEAR OF HYPOCRISY ON BOTH MY PART AND THIS WOMAN'S, I TOLD FRANKLY THAT THE SCANDAL HAD GONE FAR ENOUGH AND THAT I WOULD TELL THE WORLD WHAT I KNEW AND TRY TO REGAIN MY HUSBAND'S LOVE. LOVE HIM STILL AND STAND READY EVEN NOW TO GO TO HIM."

Dr. Miller is a graduate of the medical department of the University of Pittsburgh.

Denies Woman's Plea

WATSEKA, Ill., July 14.—Arrangements today for the funeral of J. B. Saylor, the banker who was tragically slain at Crescent City last Sunday night, were simple and did not include the presence of the widow, who, with Dr. L. Miller, the slayer, is in jail here. Mrs. Saylor's request to attend the funeral was refused by Sheriff McKee.

Goldie, the banker's only child, was the principal mourner at the funeral. It was for her, it is said, that Mr. Saylor maintained silence over the attentions of Dr. Miller to Mrs. Saylor. The intimacy between these two is said to have had its first growth in their mutual love for hunting.

Fears of Lynching

WATSEKA, Ill., July 14.—J. B. Saylor, vice-president of the First National Bank of Crescent City, Ill., was shot and killed Sunday night by Dr. R. W. Miller, a well-known physician. Mrs. Saylor returned home after the killing and found Dr. Miller in company with his wife.

It is alleged that Mr. Saylor and Dr. Miller, in company with others, including John Grunier, father of Mrs. Saylor, had just been drinking. For a time last night the guests of Dr. Miller, who is the gossip of his relations with Mrs. Saylor having been life for nearly two years.

MYSTERIOUS PACKET

CRESCENT CITY, July 14.—The funeral here of J. B. Saylor, the banker who was slain by Dr. W. L. Miller, divided public interest today with the unknown contents of the so-called packet left by Dr. Saylor in the bank vault.

The bank officials said that the box would not be opened today. The key to it has been turned over to the Saylor brothers.

"I think," said William Saylor today, "that the packet in the bank vault should be found to contain nothing but business papers."

Bloodstained garments, belonging to it is said to Dr. Miller, Mrs. Saylor and John C. Grunier, Mrs. Saylor's father, were discovered at the Saylor home today. The blood is said by the prisoners to have come from Dr. Miller's wounded wrist.

Business houses closed at noon to allow everyone to follow the body of Mr. Saylor to the cemetery. The local Modern Woodmen and Odd Fellows, without regalia, marched in the procession.

Oliver Joseph Who Assaulted Boy Is Convicted on Battery Charge

Oliver Joseph, a 40-year-old pounman, was convicted before Police Judge Samuels this morning of battery on Morgan Craft, a school boy, residing at 132 Fifteenth avenue. According to the testimony the pounman attempted to take a horse which was temporarily grazing along the sidewalk. Young Craft saw the advance of the pounman and hastily drove the horse into an engine. The pounman followed the youth for a distance of 50 feet, upbraiding him for interference, finally striking the boy a vicious blow in the face, bringing the blood in a stream.

A warrant was issued for Joseph but he obtained knowledge of it and fled to Point Richmond. He was subsequently arrested while visiting Oakland. Sentence will be pronounced July 18.

Falls Into Cistern; Awakens Neighbors

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Robert Woodside of 277 Harrison street, while returning home late last night, stumbled into an auxiliary fire cistern at Sixty and Fulton streets.

Woodside remained there until early this morning, when he was rescued by Thomas Coffey of 35 Russ street. Coffey was awakened from sound sleep by Woodside's cries for assistance and paid no attention to them.

After several futile attempts to slumber, however, he arose and went to investigate. He found Woodside lying justly and crying for help.

Coffey and Officer Parrell knotted two sheets from Coffey's bed and pulled Woodside, muddy and in no cheerful mood, from the cistern. "I guess I'll go home and sleep," said Woodside. "The same here," said Coffey.

DIVORCED HUSBAND ENTERS FIGHT OVER MILLER ESTATE

Suit Filed in Superior Court to Compel Wife's Affinity to Give Up Claims to Property.

By the filing of a suit this morning in the Superior Court of Alameda County, Frank Miller, divorced husband of the late Harriet Miller, has given local color to the fight for the $14,000 estate left by the woman, which was inaugurated yesterday before Superior Judge Morgan of San Francisco, by Monroe Markham, reputed affinity of the deceased; Maggie Altschell, a sister of Mrs. Miller, and other relatives.

Markham is named as the principal defendant in Miller's action—although others are mentioned under fictitious names—which is instituted for the purpose of compelling him to deliver up for cancellation all deeds, papers and documents held by him, or any of the other defendants, in any manner affecting the title to certain property located in Brooklyn Township, which he claims he owns and which his deceased wife and Markham connived to take from him.

Opening of Contest

The beginning of the contest in San Francisco was marked by an application of the relatives of Mrs. Miller to Judge Morgan for an order allowing them to inspect the contents of a safe deposit box in the Metropolitan Trust and Savings Bank held by Mrs. Miller. Markham expressed his willingness to give the key into the keeping of Attorney H. H. McClosky, who is named as executor in each of the two wills which Mrs. Miller left for her relatives to fight over, but he said he was not willing that the box should be opened unless he was present. He told the court that he would like to see that nothing was taken out, and Markham's attorney, Robert Bacon, added that he wanted to see that nothing was put in.

McClosky objected to Markham's being present when the box should be opened, saying that he had already looked for some bonds which Mrs. Miller used to own and which had once been seen in her safe, but had not been able to find them. Markham volunteered the information that the bonds to the amount of $1200 were in his keeping, and he claimed that Mrs. Miller had given them to him after they had become engaged to be married.

Box Opened

Then Attorney John C. Scott of Oakland, who appears as counsel for Miller in his suit against Markham and others, claimed that he should be present at the opening of the box, and that Markham also had a right to be present.

The opening ceremony was performed. The box proved to contain only nine bonds, worth in the aggregate about $150, and these not the bonds which McClosky had been looking for. There were also ninety-four shares of stock in the San Carlos Park, a $50 note from J. M. Sullivan and a body was visibly disappointed. Every-thing was visibly disappointed. Every-thing was visibly disappointed. Every-thing was visibly disappointed.

AGREE ON PLAN TO PROMOTE CITY HARBOR IMPROVEMENT

To Construct 3 Concrete Piers on North Side

An understanding has been reached between the city administration and members of the commercial codger of the city with respect to the improvements to be commenced on the local harbor, for the purpose of making the most out of the advantages which nature has placed within the grasp of this city.

The understanding was reached at a meeting, which was held yesterday afternoon between Mayor Mott, City Engineer Turner, Assistant City Engineer Brown, H. C. Capwell, M. J. Layman, Dr. Geo. H. Pardee, E. C. Sessions, and Edwin Stearns. The board not officially connected with the city government represented the harbor and water front committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the gathering was to reach an understanding as to what the city was willing to do in the way of having a favorable report made to the harbor committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the latter some time ago having made a report recommending the construction of three concrete piers on the north side of the harbor. These, it is proposed to erect between Broadway and Jefferson street. That section and Jefferson street for the haul thence to the heart of the business district would be shorter than it would be by the other section of the harbor which is now improved, and the three piers will be 450, another 400 and the third 350 feet in length, and all of them will be built of concrete. They will be the most complete and substantial to be found on the coast and will defy the ravages of time. There will be a fourth one of these piers, that will be by the monument street, in East Oakland, and this will be for the special accommodation and convenience of the large and successful manufacturing plants which the harbor at that point is lined.

Will Expend $1,155,000

It is expected that the cost of building these three piers will be $1,155,000. This will include the cost of dredging between and around the slips to a depth of thirty feet in order that there may be no difficulty in having the largest ships to come into the harbor and discharging the cargo and taking aboard new ones.

It was stated that the city proposes to purchase land from the low-tide line to the water street and then to build a thoroughfare and to increase the width of First street.

The subject of piers farther west than Jefferson street was considered and it was generally agreed that the city should purchase additional land and that the money therefor should come out of the forthcoming bond issue. There was a sentiment the subject of the land purchase ought to be in the vicinity of Market street.

Meeting Tomorrow

There will be a meeting tomorrow between representatives of the city and the commercial organizations with Colonel Biddle, and the whole matter will be gone over in a most thorough manner, and upon this meeting will depend the report which the colonel will make to the War Department.

her against excitement owing to the weak condition of her heart.

After the secret wedding Otto wrote a letter home, excerpts from which are as follows:

"I was married today at 11 o'clock. I wish you for my sake as well as mother's to do everything in your power to make mamma satisfied."

"Lottie and I should have been married long ago."

"My sincere wish is that we forget the past and live for the future."

She 40, He is 28

The past referred to is best told in Mrs. Hill's own words.

"I have begged and pleaded with my son to give that woman up. He has promised repeatedly and that woman has at last succeeded in stealing my beautiful boy. Otto has vast a burning year upon our family names. She is forty years of age and he is but 28, although he gave his age as 32 when he applied for the marriage license.

"I received word that my son was married and living in a house on Santa Clara avenue. I at once returned and found that he was living there but was not married. I entered the house and awaited him to return. He came from Oakland with that woman and I taxed him to tell me the truth. He told me he was present and I scored her. She defied me and told me that Otto and she were to be married. I told her that he would marry her if I could prevent it.

"Then she turned toward me and slapped me, and Otto, my own boy, stood by and saw this woman slap me and never offered to interfere.

"On that day Otto came to the house and told me that he had decided to part company with the woman. I was pleased and forgave him, but he was secretly meeting her. Now he has succumbed to her influence and she is the wife of my darling boy."

No Son of Mine

"I disinherit him. I shall have nothing more to do with him. He has disgraced our family name. Oh, it is terrible. He is no longer a son of mine."

"He wrote me a letter asking me to accept the woman he had married as my daughter-in-law and sonnet, the union I sent his letter back to him. No more will Otto cross the threshold of this house. Oh, I am disgraced."

The couple are spending their delayed honeymoon at Lake Tahoe. Hill is employed by a drugstore house in Oakland and is said to be their most trusted and best liked employee, whose word will be up from the bottom rung of the ladder to a position of trust.

Lottie Calais is the sister of Mrs. Melia Nelson, the divorced wife of Harry Nelson of San Francisco. The sister was arrested a short time ago in San Francisco for drunkenness and was found dead in her cell on the following morning.

SEWER DELAYS STREET PAVING

Board of Public Works Awards Contract For Harrison Place Work

At a meeting of the Board of Public Works this morning a contract for the installation of a sewer in Harrison place was let to the Contra Costa Construction Company at a figure of $2500.

It was decided on the board that it would be inadvisable this year to order the paving of Broadway between Piedmont avenue and Nineteenth street, owing to the fact that there was a sewer recently placed in the street. This sewer requires time to settle and the citizens will not be called on to pave the street permanently until next year.

Mayor Mott at the meeting took cognizance of the fact that the Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Works was using the streets apparently as a store room for its pipe. Mayor Mott thought the company should be notified. One of the protesters against the method of the gas company in using its pipe was no less a personage than Victor McCall, former Secretary of the Navy, but now president of the Union Savings Bank.

FIRE CHIEF HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Short is Thrown From Rig to Street But Not Seriously Hurt

While speeding to a fire this morning at 1629 Market street, Assistant Fire Chief Sam Short had a narrow escape from serious injury, the horse he was driving crossing his legs and throwing himself. The stop was so sudden that the fire chief fell over the dashboard, landing on his face. Fortunately for Short he struck the neck of the prostrate horse in his fall, saving his face from being cut on the pebbly street.

Although stunned Short got up and assisted the horse to its feet. The animal had torn eight or ten patches of skin from his side.

Both the chief and the horse reached the fire, which was due to a defective chimney, in fair condition, however. The horse was able to be driven back to the engine house, but Short believes he should have an auto which at least would cross its legs or else a new horse. The animal which fell has been in the department for ten years.

It is feared that he may have stopped to take a swim in the Russian River and stumbling into one of the treacherous holes, have been drowned without a chance for his life.

A party is searching for his bicycle, which, it is thought, might be on the bank.

Greater Oakland's Expansion.

In the amount of money the citizens of San Francisco have spent during the past three and one-half years in building in that city has, of course, outranked every other on the Pacific Coast.

Most of the $180,000,000 or so paid by the fire insurance companies to redeem their policies for the destruction of property insured has thus been spent. But the vast sum expended there, whatever the amount, has been spent in reconstruction—in rehabilitation. So far as the old down town business quarter is concerned a larger floor area has been developed, as Ambassador Whitelaw Reid not long ago stated at a London banquet, than existed in the burned district before the great quake and conflagration of April, 1906. But it is, after all, reconstruction, not new construction, and that largely in the air and not spread over the devastated area as it was before. It does not, therefore, show expansion—merely rehabilitation on more substantial lines, however, over the contracted area rebuilt than existed before.

Meantime, Oakland has spent approximately $25,000,000 in new construction. The comparison between what this city has done in expansion and what San Francisco has done in rehabilitation is not made with any invidious intent, but merely to show that while the vast sum of money San Francisco property owners recovered from fire insurance companies as part compensation for their enormous losses has been courageously spent in restoration, the investment of Oakland's citizens has all gone into absolutely new building. It gives a partial insight into Oakland's growth.

But it is only partial. To fairly comprehend Oakland's wonderful growth and the growth of its suburbs, it is not overstating the matter by saying that Berkeley and Alameda have during the same period between them spent in new construction an amount nearly, if not quite equal, to one-half what Oakland spent and that at least $5,000,000 more has been spent in new construction in the neighboring towns and settlements of Emeryville, Piedmont, Fruitvale, Melrose, Fitchburg, Elmhurst and San Leandro. This means that, without considering the vast amount spent on new schools, the construction of boulevards, the development of parks and other public works, Oakland and its neighboring cities and their suburbs on this side of the bay, have spent $42,500,000 during the past three and one-half years in new buildings to accommodate business and house their increased population, and at the same time, the quasi-public corporations have been spending millions untold additional in the improvement of their properties. And the latter are now carrying out plans involving the expenditure of $50,000,000 more. These are facts which speak volumes for Greater Oakland's future and ought to carry great weight at home and abroad, as they doubtless will.

Free Grazing and Forestry.

One of the chief objections to planting Yerba Buena Island with forest trees is that it deprives the keeper of the lighthouse pasturage for his cows. The light keeper sees in the tree planting proposition an unjust invasion of his prerogatives. Being off any milk route, it is necessary for him to keep a cow if he would have his table supplied regularly with cream and fresh milk. Long enjoyment of free pasturage confirms him in the opinion that he has acquired a vested right to the same, and he feels indignant that a great city should conspire against his breakfast table. "What are mere looks," he declares, speaking of the futility of foresting the island, "compared to a cow and a pasture?" We sympathize with his extremity. His view of things is not at all singular. There are many others who put the individual comforts of a cow and free pasture above public right and convenience. Great national reforms or movements for universal betterment are frequently compelled to halt because some person insists upon retaining a free grazing privilege. In fact, the cow and pasture idea dominates the citizenship of many people. When such persons are hired by the Government to tend a lighthouse, they naturally fall into the belief that the Government thereby becomes bound to furnish pasture for their cows. By the same easy process they readily convince themselves that cream for their coffee and berries is far more important than any scheme of adornment that will merely please the eyes of millions.

It is so unreasonable for the public not to feel the same interest as the light keeper in a cow with free grazing!

The fact that the various steel works concentrated in Pittsburgh are filled with orders for all steel freight cars and other railroad materials which will keep some of the companies busy until next year, and their refusal to accept any speculative orders except for finished materials, is proof of the great prosperity which has returned to the country at large. This is accentuated also by the report issued by the Agricultural Department that all of the staple crops—spring and winter wheat, barley, oats, rye and corn—exhibit a better percentage than the average for the past ten unexampled years. The country is always prosperous when the soil yields bountiful crops and the market prices are good, which are the prevailing conditions this year.

S. P. Co.'s Electric Power Plans.

It was foreshadowed many years ago when the electric power producing capacity of the water courses of the Sierra were being developed and the practicability of the long-distance transmission of the current was proved, that the Southern Pacific Company would some day move its trains over the steep mountain grades by electricity, as the traction capacity of the electric motor had been demonstrated to be much greater than that of the steam locomotive. The latter overcomes with difficulty 2½ and 3 per cent grades, whereas, the electric motor can easily haul a load over 5 per cent grades. It was, moreover, manifest that a power producible from these water courses at a less cost than any producible from the cheapest known fuel and transmissible for distances ranging from 250 to 400 miles would surely displace steam as a measure of economy in railroad operation.

The time is fast approaching when these theories will become accomplished facts. For two or three years past expert hydro-electric engineers have been exploring the Sierra in this State and the Cascades in Oregon for suitable power house sites and water sources in the interest of the Harriman lines and the secret is out, prematurely according to Chief Engineer Hood, that the plans for the substitution of electric power for steam in hauling trains over the trans-mountain division have been nearly completed.

From the enormous scale on which these plans have been drawn, it is quite evident that trains will be hauled ultimately over all divisions of the Southern Pacific system in northern and central California, at least, and through Oregon and Nevada and possibly Utah. Within the next five years, and possibly within less than one-half that time, we will doubtless witness the transition of train-hauling from steam to electricity and the entire relegation of the steam locomotive to those divisions of the railroad system where electric power is not obtainable.

Distributing a Fortune.

When Andrew Carnegie retired from active business to live on his estate in Scotland and started his free library buildings and college philanthropies, he declared that it was the duty of every rich man to distribute his wealth during his lifetime for the benefit of mankind and die poor. Of course, Carnegie has distributed more millions for public benefactions than any American philanthropist of his times, but there is no danger of his dying poor, as his fortune is said to be growing faster than is the work of its distribution.

Dr. Daniel K. Pearsons of Chicago is probably the only multimillionaire in the country who is carrying out to the letter the idea of the distribution of wealth advanced by Carnegie, for he has distributed in munificent benefactions to the small colleges of the country considerably more than $4,000,000 and now that he is approaching the age of ninety, is said to be arranging for the distribution of his last million so that when he celebrates his ninetieth birthday on April 14, 1910, he will be relatively a poor man. He made his announcement publicly a few days ago at Chicago.

The presumption is that Dr. Pearsons will reserve enough, however, to keep him in comfort for the remainder of his life should he survive to become a centenarian and that there is, consequently, no danger of his becoming an object of public charity. If there were any possibility of the latter happening, it would become necessary to apply some restraining influence to prevent it, for no man has a right to deliberately pauperize himself, however much he may desire to get rid of the fortune he has amassed and which has become an intolerable burden and a care to him in his old age. Any man who manifests a disposition to carry out that policy certainly needs a guardian. With Carnegie the assumption that no man has a right to die rich is, of course, simply a theory of doubtful sincerity; but with Dr. Pearsons it is taking the practical form of a reality.

Despite the talk about the decline in the power and prestige of France and the alleged decadence of the French nation, the credit of France stands higher than that of any other nation in Europe. French bonds are only a fraction below par, and command higher prices than those of Germany and Great Britain. Yet France carries the heaviest national debt of all the nations. Moreover, the French are the wealthiest people in the world measured on the per capita basis. There is only a small proportion of great fortunes in France; her wealth is more widely distributed among the people than in other countries, and the land is in the main owned by the people who till it. In late years France has taken the place of England as a money lender to other nations; a constant stream keeps pouring from her banking houses to keep the financial machinery going in other countries. Owing little or nothing abroad, she is collecting a larger interest account year by year from other nations. Evidently a great debt held exclusively at home is not a material clog on national energies. By borrowing the savings of the people the French government merely assumes the function of savings banker for the nation, a plan that makes the stability of the republic rest upon the money it owes the people.

The Seattle Exposition is establishing a good record for itself, as it is paying expenses. This is unprecedented in the history of such exhibitions excepting the isolated instance of the Mid-Winter Fair, which rounded out its career with a surplus to its credit.

PURELY PERSONAL

So Lord Chylesmore, the present chairman of the council of the London National Rifle Association, which celebrates its jubilee in July, is known to Blaisy men. It is now many years since his lordship shot at Blaisy as a representative of Eaton, and to him really belongs the credit of having instituted the Boys' Blaisy. By the way, the curious custom is observed in the Chylesmore family of always having roly-poly jam pudding on the table. When his lordship was seven years old he was suffering from an illness which was likely to prove fatal. For days he had eaten nothing, and then he demanded jam pudding. An emphatic "No" from the doctor only increased the boy's desire for this delicacy and he persisted in his request. At last the medical man gave way and the jam pudding was served up. Strangely enough, from that moment the boy began to mend, and in a short time he was out and about again.

Among the amusing stories told of the undergraduate days of Lord Wemyss, the first chairman of the council of the National Rifle Association, is one concerning a day when he got leave from the Dean of Christ Church to go to town "to see a doctor about his lame leg." The Dean expressed sympathy for him, and gave permission to go. The real object, however, was a State ball given by the young Queen, which he particularly wanted to see. Unfortunately, his name appeared in all the papers the next day as having been among those present. When the Dean met him, therefore, on his return to Oxford, he dryly remarked: "I was not aware that dancing was a cure for lameness."

Perhaps the most interesting of the Colonial editors who went to London to attend the Imperial Press Conference is Sir Hugh Graham, editor and proprietor of the Montreal Star, and the first Canadian journalist to be knighted. Starting as an office boy, he became the business manager of a Montreal paper when he was eighteen, and three years later he and two others started the Star with less than $100 capital. It was a hard fight, and there were times when Sir Hugh scarcely knew how to pay for the printing ink. But he triumphed in the end and the Star became the best-selling newspaper property in Canada.

Excepting, perhaps, Lord Lyveden, the Earl of Egmont, who celebrated his fifty-third birthday the other day, has had a more adventurous career than any other member of the peerage. Before succeeding to the title, about a dozen years ago, he fought it for some twenty years, serving as a sailor before the mast, as a fireman in the London Fire Brigade, and as caretaker of the Chelsea Town Hall.

Roger, the French tenor, on one occasion was engaged for the sum of 1500 francs ($200) to sing at the house of a rich financier. Roger sang his first song magnificently; but no one paid him the slightest attention and the guests talked their loudest. For the next song Roger could not be found and that evening was seen no more. Next day a note came from him, accompanied by the sum of 2000 francs. The note ran thus: "I have the honor to return the 1500 francs which I received for singing at your party and I beg leave to add 500 francs more for having so greatly disturbed the conversation of your guests."

Alexandre Dumas could not refuse a request. One day he gave a man a letter to one of his intimate friends in Brussels. The latter, a wealthy merchant, did everything in his power to make life pleasant for Dumas' friend. After the lapse of a fortnight the man suddenly disappeared and with him the best horse in the merchant's stable. When next the merchant met Dumas he said: "Dear friend, your friend is a shark. He stole the best horse in my stable." Astonished, Dumas raised his hands toward heaven and cried: "What, he stole from you, too?"

In one year the German Emperor wrote no fewer than seven thousand personal and private letters. There seems to be a certain fitness in this, when it is remembered that Germany indisputably holds the title of being the chief letter-writing nation of Europe, for it has been shown that in one fiscal year of the International Postal Union it sent a total of nearly eight thousand million pieces of mail matter, while Great Britain and Ireland had less than five thousand millions to their credit, France more than a thousand millions less than that, while Russia and Italy each sent only about a sixth of what Germany did.

All the leaders of southern thought appreciate the opportunities which the Southern States offer. In agriculture, in manufacturing, in mining, in trade, it is necessary only to develop the field. At the present time the South must depend too much upon the North for its development. While Southern men are achieving success in northern cities, it will be noted that to a large extent northern money is behind much of the business activity of the States south of the Ohio and the Potomac. It is true that, in general, wealth may not be amassed so rapidly there, but it does not require so much to live comfortably in that section, and certainly, if a man aspires to intellectual and political leadership, the opportunities are relatively greater there than here, as the number of individuals available for these honors is not relatively so large. The "governing class," especially in States with a large negro population, is much smaller than in other parts of the country.—New York Tribune.

But greater than the glory of the medals that will be theirs, greater than the distinction of being congratulated by the nation's celebrities, greater than any set tribute which might be paid to them, is the simple statement of their achievement that the children's children will learn as they take their first aeroplane lessons: "The Wrights flew first."—New York World.

Indictment of the Sugar Trust Regarded as Highly Important

After Individuals.—In one respect—and a very important one—the blanket indictment of the American Sugar Refining Company and certain of its officers and directors, including a great lawyer who had acted as counsel for the corporation and also two other persons not officially connected with the company, is an innovation in prosecutions under the Federal Anti-Trust law. It is significant of a purpose to fasten responsibility for an alleged conspiracy in restraint of trade on individuals.—Philadelphia Record.

Some of the Vital Questions.—The vital questions are as to the nature, quality and completeness of the evidence extant and whether any of the surviving members of the trust were sufficiently cognizant of the transaction to be criminally responsible. For in these criminal cases individual knowledge of and responsibility for a criminal act must be proved.—New York Tribune.

Takes a Sceptical View.—It is to be presumed that the eight prominent men indicted by the Federal grand jury in New York in connection with the Sugar Trust's capture of Adolph Segal's new Philadelphia refinery will claim that they are victims of public clamor. They may interpose between themselves and the sword of justice the statute of limitations and possibly may escape punishment. The public has reason to be sceptical of the effectiveness of this belated attempt to enforce the Anti-Trust law.—Camden Post.

Hopes for Prison Bars.—Sugar Trust officials having been indicted, now let us see what can be done with them. The government has had some success in pulling cash out of the corporation already, but it would please the people to see some of the trust magnates looking out from behind bars.—Bridgeport Post.

Adds Importance.—Attorney General

Wickersham's policy is to be sure he's right then go ahead. Which makes the action of the Federal grand jury in the case of the Sugar Trust more important than some Federal indictments which have been reported.—Boston Transcript.

Recalls Disappointments.—Should the high officials of the trust be found guilty and properly fined and imprisoned the wholesome effects could not be denied and it may be conceded that such prosecution properly precedes a suit to destroy the alleged monopoly itself. The feeling about the matter lacks exuberance because memory of similar endeavors has disappointed.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Backed by Public Sentiment.—There will be a great volume of public sentiment behind the government suit against the Sugar Trust. This powerful, law-defying corporation has been detected using such despicable tactics that not even a modicum of sympathy will be felt, be the outcome of the prosecution as severe as it may. In fact, there will be disappointment if any leniency is shown.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Better Than a Fine.—The Department of Justice under the present attorney general seems disposed to treat the Sugar Trust as an accused of less wealth and power would be treated. The penalty for the offence charged is imprisonment as well as fine. A fine is no punishment to a rich monopoly, but a term in prison for those who direct the affairs of the monopoly would be quite a different affair.—Baltimore Sun.

Greater Oakland

"Oh, come, my love, to me, to me; That life may all serenely be For you and I, till eternity."

Thus warbles one of those mid-summer poets for which California is becoming famous; and what more appropriate place to let his wants be known than in the columns of an Oakland daily, top of column, alongside p. r. m. Whoever his love may be he wants her, and wants her bad. His trouble-sweet existence can only be calmed, "till eternity," by his love coming to him. It's cruel to have a soul thus tormented. The Livermore Valley farmers are having their innings. Most of them are free from mortgage and indebtedness of any kind. There is an ordinance against driving cattle through the streets of Oakland, but there might as well be none, for it is violated every day. Yesterday, about 12:30 o'clock, a large drove of cattle was taken along Fourteenth street, East Oakland. Stray members of the band trod upon lawns and sidewalks and the street was temporarily blocked for the passage of teams.

According to boatmen, Lake Merritt was never in a finer condition, under the circumstances, than it is at present. The green scum which covered a portion of the northern extremity has disappeared. Boating is all the rage. Moonlight parties take every boat there is to be had, while on Sundays there is not enough to go around. T. M. Kendall of the Bon Ton boat house has just completed some handsome lap streak boats for rowing which are so light as to be easily picked out of the water by one person.

Young Mitchell, the slogger, has leased the "Reform," a roadhouse on the San Leandro road. There will probably be some trouble over the matter as Harry Church, the former owner of the property, deeded it to one of his divorced or "retired" wives on the condition that it should be transferred to a third party only with his consent. It is understood that he objects to the renting of the property to Mitchell, hence the impending row.

The holes are plugged with corks but once in a while, Morse draws a cork, pokes out a rifle and shoots a bullet into the suburban darkness, which is

PRETTY DIVORCEE TRIES TO MURDER

Fires Five Shots at Navy Yard Employee But All Miss

VALLEJO, July 14.—The futile attempts of Mrs. Idolene Courtney Morse, a pretty young woman, to shoot her sweetheart created much excitement early yesterday. None of the five shots took effect. The woman was attempting to kill William Wiggins, a young man employed in the department of supplies and accounts on Mare Island. Both the girl and Wiggins refuse to make any statement.

Mrs. Morse married William Morse of Woodland, but obtained a divorce from him last year. She is a graduate of the Vallejo high school and comes of a prominent family in this city.

Wiggins has refused to swear to a complaint against the girl and as the police do not feel like taking up the case it is very likely that she will soon be released from the city prison. The police had a hard time to find the weapon with which the shooting was done, as the woman took the gun to pieces and scattered the various parts in her clothing.

Anty Drudge Tells How to Prevent Laundry Mistakes.

Jones—"Heavens, Jennina! Look what came back from the laundry! Three pairs of women's stockings and five petticoats. Why I've got some woman's laundry, instead of my own."

Anty Drudge—"I'll tell you how to avoid mistakes like that. Get Fels-Naptha soap and have your things washed the easy way at home. They'll be cleaner and fresher and wear twice as long and then you won't get them mixed with other people's clothes."

You owe it to yourself and your folks to use Fels-Naptha.

You owe it to yourself to cut down the time of washing clothes one-half, to save yourself its drudgery, to make it easier and more pleasant all around.

You owe it to your folks to quit making washday a day of cold meals, steamy and smelly house and general bad temper.

Fels-Naptha does it, summer or winter—washes all the clothes in cool or lukewarm water, without boiling, in little time, with no hard rubbing, and makes them cleaner, whiter and sweeter than any other way.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

An American woman who stands high among the British aristocracy is the Duchess of Manchester who before her marriage to the ninth Duke of Manchester which took place in 1930 was Miss Helena Zimmerman daughter of Eugene Zimmerman of Cincinnati. I thought Mary and I were going but we were not at all. At first I tried to do anything right and it was so wrong. No, do it this way just as if I was going to help now. I think she would do yet I'd like to do something besides that. And both were wrong and both were right.

But whom in fuller fashion
The Master sways
For him swift wing'd with passion
Fleet the brief days
Sometimes the enforced recents come,
And leave him ever after dumb
—Lewis Morris.

I thought Mary and I were going to be so happy together she said but we were not at all. At first I tried to help about the work but I didn't seem to do anything right and it was so exasperating to have someone always saying, 'No, do it this way' just as if I were a child. I've about given up trying to help now. I think she would rather do it herself than have me. And yet I'd like to do something besides sit on the piazza and read or sew.

'And both were wrong and both were right' echoed gently through my mind.

SONG

Love took my life and thrill'd it
Through all its strings
Play'd around my mind and fill'd it
With sound of winge
But to my heart he ne'er came
To touch it with his golden name.

Therefore it is that thing
I do rejoice
Nor heed the slow years bringing
A harsher voice
Because the songs whi he has sung
Still leave the untouch'd singer young.

But whom in fuller fashion
The Master sways
For him swift wind'd with passion
Flies the brief days
Between the enforced accents come,
And leave him ever at dumb

OAKLAND CLUB RECALLS JOHNSON AND THOMAS

FRANK TRUESDALE HAS BEEN ORDERED TO REPORT HERE BEFORE AUGUST 15

THREE PLAYERS WILL STRENGTHEN THE LINE-UP OF THE ATHENIANS

"Spider" Baum Smothered Under Avalanche of Hits by Seals—Griffin Gains His Second Victory This Week

By HERMAN F. BUDE.

PITCHER JOHNSON and Catcher Thomas have been recalled by the Oakland Coast League Club and are expected to be on hand inside of a week. Both at present are members of the Helena Club, formerly of the Intermountain, and now the Montana League, to which place they were sent last spring by the local management, and their work has met with unbounded success. Thomas made such an enviable record that it is said Comiskey of the White Sox sent a special scout to Montana to look him over.

Truesdale Will Strengthen Athenians

Frank Truesdale, another player who trained with the Oaks at Hayward and afterwards had to go to Texas on account of his health, has been asked to return and is expected to report by the 15th of August. Truesdale is at present playing second base for the Dallas Club in the Texas League and is and hardly a game passes by but he does not figure in the hit column. So well has he been received in the South that the Dallas manager made more than one effort to buy him of Oakland, but President Walters refused to sell, believing that in Truesdale he has a great ball tosser who is going right, and without doubt he has. His loss will be keenly felt by the Dallas people and they will hate to let him go, but as his services are as indispensable here as there, and as he belongs to the local baseball magnates, there will be nothing for him to do but to come back. He will be very welcome, for he will be of great assistance to Bill Reidy, and as for the fans, they will be tickled to death to see the face of their old friend, Truesdale.

Second Victory for Griffin This Week

The story of yesterday's game is easily told. Pitcher Griffin, who held the hill-top for the Seals, was a complete puzzle to the Law Makers, allowing neither run nor hit nor a man to reach first for six innings. It was a remarkable article of ball he heaved, and up to the seventh frame it looked very much as if he was going in for a record. Baum, on the other hand, had nothing, and his choicest benders were knocked to the four corners of the lot, the Athletics gathering in eight runs off of fourteen hits.

Sacramento Scores Win in Seventh

In the seventh the fans were more surprised to see Sacramento obtain her lone tally than they were to see the Seals get all theirs. Griffin had been dishing up such a perfect grade of curlogical specimens that it was never dreamt that he would condescend to walk a man to first. He did just the same, and Shinn was the lucky person upon whom he bestowed the benefaction. The Sacramento shortstop immediately reciprocated this favor by taking second on Doyle's out and third on Gandil's single to left and home on Raymond's out to Jim Williams.

Zelder did his best to help Griffin obtain a record. In the sixth Rollie pulled off a play of a lightning character. Baum had walloped the ball good and hard and sent a line drive straight at the San Francisco twirler. Griffin stopped the force of the drive, but was unable to recover it in time to throw to first. Zelder came to his rescue and by some lively springing succeeded in preventing a hit.

Flanagan has recovered from his attack of malaria and was back in the game again, playing his old position in the right garden. For the present Hildebrand will spend his time getting down to weight and improving his whip. Being out of the game so many months has handicapped his throwing, and it will be a few days before he can peg as he used to in the days of old. Flanagan and House pulled off several beautiful catches.

WILLIE HOGAN DEVELOPING INTO ONE OF BEST THIRD SACKERS IN COAST LEAGUE

WILLIE HOGAN is fast developing into one of the best third basemen on the coast. His work has improved wonderfully within the last month and now it is no trouble at all for him to scoop up grounders of any variety. One would imagine to take a peek at him but he has experienced some difficulty in covering his territory, but, as a matter of fact, his size belies his agility. He gets over his zone in rapid style and often jumps into the third department to pull down a bouncer. On bunts and sacrifice hits Hogan is sure to come down from third to home plate full speed and grabs the ball on the run or if he is a mighty seldom misses them. Of course he is bound to make errors, as any player would be, but he is a minus quantity with him nowadays. They come few and far between. He has often been remarked of him that he has the same style of picking up the ball as Tannehill of the Chicago White Sox has. The big leaguer set the East a pace with his way of handling the ball but Hogan has followed his lead. It was only after days of practice that he acquired the knack of picking them up on the dead run. He was rewarded for his patience, for when he once acquired the trick it meant the doom of any batter who cracked the horsehide in his direction.

Lets Orange Pickers Down With 3 Hits; Wheeler Knocks Homer

"Slim" Nelson had one of his good days yesterday and the Angels had to suffer in consequence. Only one run was made off of his delivery and that came in the fourth when Wheeler peeped out the first hit for a home run over the left field fence. The swat was of the healthy kind and cleared the boards by several feet.
